L.Frank Baum(1856_1919) was an American author.Baum enjoyed acting and writing for the stage and worked as a journalist and in business.His most well known book is The Wizard of Oz.

Introduction.

This story is about two kind of characters. Both of them want something and decided to travel together.Both characters are polite and kind.They help each other in a good way.

Theme:Adventure and imagination.

Reading: page 2

Dorothy walked along the road.It was made of yellow bricks.When she had gone some miles she needed to rest.She climbed to the top of the fence beside the road and sat down.Her dog Toto,was also tired.He lay down on the ground by the fence.There was a large cornfield on the other side of the fence and in the field there was a scarecrow.

Dorothy gazed at the scarecrow.Its head was a small sack stuffed with straw.Its face was painted on the sack.It had an old,pointed blue hat on its head.On its body,it wore a blue suit of faded clothes which had also been stuffed with straw.On the feet,there were some old boots.The Scarecrow was tied to a tall pole. It was there to scare the birds and stop them from eating the ripe corn.

While Dorothy was looking at the painted face of the Scarecrow,she was surprised to see one of the eyes slowly wink at her.She thought she must have imagined it.Then,the Scarecrow nodded its head to her in a friendly way.Dorothy climbed down from the fence and walked up to it.Toto ran around the pole and barked.

Good day,said the Scarecrow.

You didn't just speak,did you?asked the girl in wonder.

Certainly,answered the Scarecrow.How do you do?

I'm pretty well,thank you,replied Dorothy politely.How do you do?

I'm bored,said the Scarecrow.It is very dull being stuck up here night and day to scare away crows.

Can't you get down?asked Dorothy.

No.This pole is stuck up my back.Please help me get down.

Dorothy reached up both arms and lifted the Scarecrow off the pole. He was quite light because he was only stuffed with straw.She set him down on the ground.

Thank you very much,said the Scarecrow.I feel much better.

Dorothy was sas surprised to hear a straw man speak.

The Scarecrow stretched and yawned. Ho are you?asked the where are you going?

My name is Dorothy; said the girl, 'and I am going to the Emerald City. I'm going to ask the Great OZ to send me back home to Kansas. 'Where is the Emerald City? Said the Scarecrow. 'And who is OZ?

'Why, don't you know?' she replied in surprise.

'No, indeed. I don't know anything. You see, I am stuffed with straw, so I have no brains at all,' he answered sadly.

'Oh,' said Dorothy, 'I'm sorry for you.'

'Do you think,' he asked, 'if I go to the Emerald City with you, that OZ would give me some brains?'

'I don't know,' she replied. 'Come to the Emerald City with me and Toto. You can ask the Great OZ for a brain.' 'What if he doesn't give me one?'

'You should try anyway,' said Dorothy.

'You have nothing to lose.'

'That is true,' said the Scarecrow. 'You see, I don't mind my legs and arms and body being stuffed because I cannot get hurt. If anyone treads on my toes or sticks a pin into me, it doesn't matter because I can't feel it.'

Dorothy listened carefully and nodded. She was amazed to see the Scarecrow walking and talking.

'But I do not want people to call me a fool, and if my head stays stuffed with straw instead of with brains, as yours is, how am I ever to know anything?' 'I understand how you feel,' said the little girl, who was truly sorry for him. 'If you will come with me I'll ask OZ to do all he can for you.'

Thank you,' he answered gratefully.

Dorothy, Toto, and the Scarecrow walked to the fence. They climbed over it and started walking along the yellow brick road towards the Emerald City.

Toto sniffed around the straw man. He growled as if he suspected there was because he did not know the Scarecrow. Don't mind Toto,' said Dorothy to her new friend. 'He never bites.'

'Oh, I'm not afraid,' replied the Scarecrow. 'He can't hurt the straw.'

'Toto be nice!' said Dorothy to her dog and bent down to pat him. Then she picked up her basket and they began walking again. 'Do let me carry that basket for you. I shall not mind it, for I can't get tired,' said the Scarecrow. 'I'll tell you a secret,' he continued, as he walked along. 'There is only one thing in the world I am afraid of.'

'What is that?' asked Dorothy. 'Is it the farmer who made you?'

'No,' answered the scarecrow. 'It's a lighted match.'

Introduction:

This is an adaptation of an old story. The story of grandfather and the wooden bowl is an old story. This story is about how we treat old people, and how young children seeing things from a wise point of view and making a profound statements. We should value humans and human relationships.

Theme:

Self, family, home, friends.

Reading page.14

Once upon a time, in a small town in Germany, there lived a man called Kurt. He lived with his son, Manfred, and his daughter_in_law, Thekla. They all shared a little old house at the end of a quiet street in the middle of the town. Manfred was a carpenter and spent all his time in a workshop next to the house. He had learnt carpentry from his father, who had been a famous carpenter in his days. Kurt had taught his son well, and the son earned a good living. He made furniture for the people of the town. And from time to time he did some carving.

The young couple, Manfred and Thekla, had a son called Wilhelm. The boy liked to sit in the workshop and watch his father. As he grew older he helped his father by fetching and carrying things. He learnt to clean the tools and to take care of them. He learnt how to use a saw and a hammer and a chisel. And his grandfather taught him to carve wood into wonderful shapes.

About the Author:

Anna Sewell(1820_1878)wrote Black Beauty to try to improve the treatment of horses.She wrote from the horse’s viewpoint makes the readers imagine what life is like for the horse.

Reading page:26

The first place that I can well remember was a large pleasant meadow with a pond of clear water in it. Some shady trees leaned over it, and rushes and waterlilies grew at the deep end. Over the hedge on one side we looked into a ploughed field, and on the other we looked over a gate at our master's house, which stood by the roadside, at the top of the meadow was a grove of fir trees, and at the bottom a running brook overhung by a steep bank.

While I was young, I lived upon my mother's milk, as I could not eat grass. In the daytime, I ran by her side, and at night, I lay down close by her. When it was hot, we used to stand by the pond in the shade of the trees and when it was cold, we had a nice warm shed near the grove. As soon as I was old enough to eat grass my mother used to go out to work in the daytime, and come back in the evening.

There were six young colts in the meadow besides me, they were older than I was, some were nearly as large as grown up horses. I used to run with them, and had great fun, we used to gallop all together round and round the field as hard as we could go. Sometimes we had rather rough play, for they would frequently bite and kick as well as gallop.

One day, when there was a good deal of kicking, my mother whinnied to me to come to her, and then she said: I wish you to pay attention to what I am going to say to you. The colts who live here are very good colts but they are cart-horse colts, and of course they have not learned manners. You have been well bred and well born, your father has a great name in these parts, and your grandfather won the cup two years at the Newmarket races, your grandmother had the sweetest temper of any horse I ever knew, and I think you have never seen me kick or bite. I hope you will grow up gentle and good, and never learn bad ways, do your work with a good will, lift your feet up well when you trot and never bite or kick even in play.

Unit#4 Pothole

About the Author

Nicholas Horsburgh (1923_1985) was a British-born educationist who worked in along with his wife Doreen. He was a fun loving Englishman. He left the UK after years in India. He speaks fluent Tamil and grew up playing with fishermen's children. He wrote many poem and stories.

Introduction of the story:

This story is about a young girl Faiza who saved the people from a big pothole. She was worried about the safety of the children. She collected good things and placed them in a good way.

Theme.

Our neighbours and community.

Reading page: 33, 34

Faiza looked out of her bedroom window. Another car was stuck in the road. The driver and an older man were changing one of the front wheels.

Faiza watched as the men worked in the blazing sunshine. A woman and two children were sitting beside the road under a tree, sheltering from the sun.

Faiza switched on her computer. She opened her calendar and began making notes on a sheet of paper.

So many accidents in just two weeks! said Faiza to herself. Something must be done! The road is too dangerous for the children of the kindergarten next door.

Faiza looked out of the window again. The men had fixed the wheel and were wiping their hands on some old rags. The woman and children were inside the car. Soon, the car drove away.

The big pothole in the road, like a gaping mouth, waited darkly for its next victim.

Faiza returned to her computer and wrote a letter.

A week went by. Three weeks went by. Faiza waited every day for a reply to her letter. No reply came. Every day, Faiza made a new entry in her accident log. Auto stuck! __ Cyclist falls into gutter. __ Man injured. __ Baskets fall into road. __ Lorry has a puncture.

Faiza found a basket and filled it with soil from her garden. She packed some compost into a bag. She carefully dug out a few small, flowering shrubs and put them in a bag. She filled an old watering can with water. Then, she found three long lengths of wood and some board pins.

She placed the items near her front door. Back in her room, Faiza found three large sheets of card. She began to write and draw on them.

In the evening, Faiza collected all the things and took them out onto the side of the road. She fixed two of the sheets of card to two pieces of wood. She propped them up with stones, at each end of the road. The signs said. ROAD CLOSED.

Faiza went back to the big pathole and emptied the basket of soil into it. She added the compost and mixed it all together. She planted the shrubs and watered them. She then pushed the third piece of wood into the soil and pinned the last sheet of card to it. On it was a colourful sign.

Faiza removed the ROAD CLOSED signs and went home. She looked out of the window. There was no pothole in the road now.

Her place was a lovely little garden!

Soon a large crowd gathered. People stopped to look. The children from the kindergarten stopped to look. When traffic passed by, drivers smiled and slowed down.

They drove carefully round the garden.

The next morning, a man with a camera arrived. He took lots of photos of Faiza's pothole garden. Shortly after that the pictures appeared in the newspaper. The Chief of Police arrived to have a look. Even the Mayor came.

Faiza's little garden was moved to the side of the road. The pothole was finally filled and a shiny new surface was put on the road. The garden today is called Faiza Garden and it is full of lovely flowering shrubs.
