Unit 4 Nasir in trouble

Introduction of Unit 4

This story is about a boy Nasir who went to see his uncle. He was going to Shalimar Bagh. He wanted to help someone. But he caught in trouble.

Theme: Adventure and Physical activity.

Reading of book page: 29

Nasir waved goodbye, as the train pulled out of the station. His mother stood on the platform, waving. 'Now be good,' she shouted. 'And don't get into trouble.' Nasir was soon in Lahore. He was staying with his Uncle Sami. Nasir liked Uncle Sami; he was very jolly man and told exciting stories. 'Make sure you write and tell mother that I am not getting into trouble.' Nasir told his uncle one morning. Uncle Sami laughed. 'I will, I will,' he said as he left for the office. Later Nasir went to see the Shalimar Bagh. As he was walking along the path, he saw a little boy. The boy was sitting near a lamp post and crying.

‘What’s the matter?’ Nasir asked? “Why are you crying?” ‘I have hurt my leg’, said the boy. ‘I fell and cut my leg on the pavement. And then my dog broke its lead and ran off. I don’t know where he is.’ ‘I’ll help you,’ said Nasir. ‘Which way did it go?’ ‘It ran down that way along the road,’ said the boy. Nasir ran off down the road. He ran a long way, and then he came to a meat stall. The meat seller was nowhere to be seen. There was the dog. It was eating chunks of meat from the stall. Nasir caught hold of the lead and pull the dog along. As he returned along the road, he heard a shout, ‘Stop! Thief! Stop! Thief!’

He turned around and there was the meat seller running towards him. Nasir was frightened. He started to run, too, as fast as he could, dragging the dog behind him. Soon other people started chasing him. A policeman with a long moustache and a stick was running after him, too! The meat seller shouted, Nasir ran, the dog was pulled along. The crowd caught up with Nasir and the dog. Nasir was now at the lamp post; and there was the boy. The policeman was angry, but the boy explained. The policeman, the meat seller, and the others soon went away. Nasir took the boy back to his house. In the evening, Nasir told Uncle Sami about the dog. ‘Luckily, I wrote to your mother this morning,’ laughed Uncle Sami.

Unit 5 The Mulla's Son

Introduction of the Unit:

It is an old tale with a twist. The story of a king, and a person Mulla who is a funny man. Whenever the emperor felt sad Mulla made him laugh.

Theme: Self and imagination.

Reading of book page 34

Over four hundred years ago, there lived a king called Akbar. He was such a great king that he was called an emperor. Akbar lived in a huge palace in Delhi. At Akbar's court, there were many famous people. There were artists, musicians, dancers and poets, and clever scientists, and writers, too. There was also a very funny man there called Mulla Do Pyaza. The Mulla made Emperor laughed. When the emperor was sad, he called for the Mulla. 'Where is my friend Do Pyaza? Bring him to me now.'

The servants in the court went in all directions. Soon Mulla Do Pyaza was brought to the Emperor. And very soon forgot all his troubles. He rolled about with laughter. Mulla Do Pyaza really was a very funny man. Nothing surprised him and nothing shocked him. He always had something to say. He had a quick answer for any question.

Unit 7 Rumpelstiltskin

Introduction of the Unit

It is an adaptation from a well-known fairy tale. The story is about a king and a Miller's daughter who became queen with the help of a little man Rumpelstiltskin.

Theme of the unit: Adventure and imagination.

Once there was a miller. He had a beautiful daughter. One day, the king came riding by. 'What do you do?' he asked. 'I'm a miller sir.' Then he lied: 'My daughter spins straw into gold!'

Reading of book page 54

'Really?' said the king. 'I'll test her in the palace tomorrow. If she can't, she'll be in trouble'. The next day, the king showed the girl to a room full of straw and spinning wheel. 'Start', said the king. 'I'll be back in the morning.' The king left. The miller's daughter sat and cried. Just then a little man ran inside. 'Why are you crying?' he asked. 'I can't spin this into gold!' cried the girl. 'What will you give me, if I do it?' asked the man. 'My necklace,' sobbed the girl.

Reading of book page 56

The little man took the necklace, and started working. By morning, the reels were full of gold. The king was pleased but he was greedy. He took the girl to a larger room. He told her to spin the straw and left. She sat and cried. The little man came again. This time he took her ring. The king saw the gold and his eyes twinkled with greed. He took the girl to a hall full of straw. 'Spin' said the king, and left. The little man came again but the girl had nothing to give. 'Give me your first child, when you become queen, said the man. The poor girl agreed. In the morning there was gold. Weeks later she became the queen. A year later, she had a child. And then the little man returned. 'Oh, please, sir!' 'I'm rich. Take anything not my child.' 'If you find out my name in three days, said the man, 'keep your child.' When he came the next day, she sang out names. 'No!' he screamed. 'All wrong!' The next day she tried again, and the man shouted, 'No!' That evening a messenger came and said, I heard a little man singing this song: "Oh what a shame! Oh what a shame! She does not know, Rumpelstilskin's my name." The next morning, the happy queen told the little man: 'RUMPELSTILSKIN!' He stamped his feet in anger. A deep hole appeared under him and he disappeared forever!
